

Irina Shayk takes 2-year-old daughter horseback riding

Bradley Cooper and Irina Shayk's adorable daughter Lea looks ready to be an equestrian star.

The cute 2-year-old was seen comfortably riding a large brown horse at Mike Meldman and Discovery Land Company's gated private estate Silo Ridge Field Club in Dutchess County upstate this past weekend. Held safely high on the horse by her Russian-born supermodel mother, with her blond curls popping out under a pink riding hat, Lea beamed and wowed onlookers by chatting to her mom in both English and Russian.

Shayk and her daughter were guests at Silo Ridge's annual Rockin' the Ridge party — which featured live music, a myriad of food, skeet shooting, archery, mini-golf, pottery and a llama-led petting zoo — along with Dylan Lauren, Mindy Grossman, Blaine Trump, Harold Ford Jr. and Kinga Lampert.

The 850-acre members-only community is Discovery's first property in the northeast. Residents include Tom Brady and Gisele, former Yankee Mark Teixeira and iHeartMedia COO Rich Bressler.
